PRESIDENT WILLARD AND HER ALLIES OUT-LINE THEIR POLICY, WHICH DISREGARDS THE WISHES OF THE LARGE AND GROW-ING MINORITY-MRS. FOSTER AND HER FRIENDS SUBMIT GRACE-FULLY, BUT DO NOT YIELD THEIR POSITION.

The Woman's National Christian Temperance Union had a splendid opportunity yesterday to recover the ground it has lost since 1864, when it entered the political arena by making an alliance with the Third party, but instead of embracing it, the leaders, assembled here in convention, de-cided to follow the fatuous course that President Willard induced the organization to embark upon four years ago. This decision was openly an-nounced by Miss Willard in her annual address, and it was also involved in the treatment of the memorial against the Union's partisanship sent by the Iowa association, which was not even allowed to be read in the convention. To be sure, this was not done without an earnest and emphatic protest on the part of the minority, led by Mrs. J. Ellen Foster, but it was done, to the great regret of many of the Union's warmest friends. This action was taken at the opening session of the Union's fifteenth annual convention, which began yesterday in the Metropolitan Opera House. It was taken quickly. There was little debate, for the majority were disposed to show their power with unusual vigor, and the chairman proved to be a willing exponent of the Third party people's wishes in this respect.

The regular proceedings of the convention were preceded by a prayer-meeting, conducted by Mrs. S. J. M. Henry, of Illinois. When it was over the 350 delegates, representing every State and Territory of the Union, filed into the great audi-This they found nearly filled with spectators and decorated in the most patriotic manner. Flags and the coats of arms of the various States were hung in front of the boxes. Flowers, evergreens and banners brightened up the stage. The speakers' table had on it beautiful bouquets of white roses. Near it stood the white banner of the Union.

LEADERS IN TEMPRANCE REFORM.

Conspicuous leaders of the movement were noticeable all over the house, as Miss Willard took her place as presiding officer. At her right sat Miss Purh, the treasurer of the organization, her countenance beaming with earnestness and goodnature. At the table with her was Miss Caroline Buell, the tireless, energetic corresponding secretary. Mrs. Woodbridge, who led the prohibition tary. Mrs. Woodbridge, who led the prohibition amendment campaign in Ohio four years ago, sat on the left of the president. She has been recording secretary of the Union for eight years. The stately figure of Mrs. Zerelda Wallace, mother of General Lew Wallace, author of "Ben Hur," was observed with pleasure among the Western delegates. She is at the head of the legal department of the Union and is called the "Temperance Deborah" by ber sisters.

gates. She is at the head of the legal department of the Union and is called the "Temperance Deborah" by her sisters.

Others seen were Mrs. Mary T. Hunt, the superintendent of scientific temperance instruction in the public schools, and the first person to secure the passage of a temperance law through Congress; Mary A. Livermore, one of the leading spirits of the Northern Sanitary Commission during the war. Mrs. L. M. Stevens, president of the Maine Union, and Mrs. Charles M. Bowers, of Massachusetts, are among the representatives from New-England. Miss Mary Lathrop, whose ability as an orator has won for her the title of "The Daniel Webster, of the Temperance Reform" is talking with the Rev. Dr. Anna Shaw, one of the ablest speakers in the Union.

Mrs. Lillic Devereaux Blake and Elizabeth Cady Stanton occupy seats in the Women's Suffrage box, at the left of the stage. Mrs. Eliza D. Stewart, or as she is more familiarly known, "Mother" Stewart, who was indirectly the cause of the formation of the British Woman's Temperance Union, and Mrs. Thompson, who led the first praying band in the women's crusade of 1874, were the recipients of special honors on every side. Mrs. J. Ellen Foster, the leader of the element in favor of nonpartisanship in the Union, sat with the Iowa delegation, quietly waiting for the contest which she knows is sure to come. Miss Sallie Chapin, the leader of the Southern Unions, is detained on the way by sickness, but Mrs. Clara Hoffman, the clear, logical talker of the Missouri Union, takes her place. Mrs. Mary T. Burt, the hostess of the assembly, occupies her place at the head of the New-York delegation. Few men were present. The stalwart figure of General Clinton B. BEGINNING ACTIVE WORK.

Miss Willard opened the meeting promptly a 10 o'clock. She did not state in her opening remarks that one of the chief objects of the convention was to help boom the Third party canvass report on "Scientific Temperance Instruction" was listened to with especial attention. In her report Mrs. Hunt says:

Twenty-five Legislatures, besides the National Government, have made Scientific Temperance a compulsory school study in their respective States and Territories, covering more than two-thirds of our population, Estimating our school population at 18,000,000, two-thirds would be 12,000,000 children-our future majorities. It is our duty to see that every one of those has the temperance education these laws demand. Louisiana and Ohio are the last additions to these States. Louisiana's example in passing one of the strongest temperance education laws yet enacted, sure to be followed by other Southern States, is cause for special gratitude.

Thirteen States yet lack this legislation. Three of these-New-Jersey, Indiana and Illinois- are north, Virginia, the Carolinas, Georgia, Florida, Mississippi, Texas, Arkansas, Keniucky and Tennessee are south of the Potomae. To these we repeat, do not take a less stringent statute than Vermont's or Louisiana's, Better try again than to get an easily evaded law. We must soon urge amendment of wealer laws.

Other reports submitted were on "Heredity," by Dr. Mary Weeks Burnett; "Health," by Miss Mary Mather; "Kindergarten," by Mrs. E. G. Greene; "Sunday-school Work," by Miss Lucretia Mary Weeks Burnett; "Health," by Miss Greene: "Sunday-school Work," by Mrs. Liceretia T. Kimball: "Juvenile Work," by Mrs. Helen G. Rice: "Higher Education," by Mrs. G. S. Hunt: "Social Purity," by Mrs. J. H. Kellogg; "Franchise," by the Rev. Dr. Anna Shaw; "Parlor Meetings," by Mrs. Anna M. exposed or given to their customers by dealers everywhere."

At the evening session the delegates were agreeably surprised to be formally welcomed here by no less a person than Mayor Hewitt himself. His appearance was entirely unexpected. It is true that the Mayor had made a speech two nights previously before the German brewers, but one would have supposed from his remarks that he was almost a white ribbon man. He was in excellent spirits. The occasion was inspiring to any man, much more the gallant Mayor. He fairly overflowed with pleasing altusions and when he closed there was loud applianse from all parts of the house.

Addresses of welcome were also made by President Burt, of the New-York Union, and General Fisk. Mrs. Mary A. Livermore responded, and then the presentation of a woman's fing from Elizabeth Thompson was made. Miss Willard accepted it. Others speakers were Miss Lathrop, and Miss Hoffman. The convention will continue its work to-day, beginning at 10 a. m.

WEDDINGS PAST AND TO COME.

A pretty wedding occurred in St. Leo's Roman Catholic Church on Wednesday evening at 7 o'clock, the Rev. Thomas J. Ducey, pastor of the church, officiaring. The contracting parties were Miss Isabel Agnes Ahearn, daughter of Daniel Ahearn of this city, and William T. Lee. The bride entered the church on the arm of her brother. She wore a dress of heavy white silk, draped in tulle and garnitured with white rosebuds. Her tulle veil was held by diamond ornaments and she carried a bouquet of white roses. The maid of honor was Miss Emma Coleman, who wore a dress of white China crepe. W. T. Ryan acted as best man and the ushers were P. G. Carroll and Joseph Rorke.

REVIEWING THE MILITIA.

THE NEW ARMORY CORNER-STONE LAID.

GOVERNOR HILL'S BUSY DAY-CORRECTED BY MR. HEWITT-ENTERTAINED BY THE OFFICERS.

Yesterday was military day in the city, but the meteorological authorities did not appreciate the im orance of the occasion, and the drizzling rain had bedrag ing effect on the bright plumes and polished accoutrements of the men. Those of the country's gallant defenders who live here and in Brooklyn were reviewed by the Commander-in-Chief of the Stat militia. Governor Hill arose early at the Hoffman House, and after breakfast and a turn about Demo cratic Headquarters received his staff and proceeded to the first duty of the day-laying the corner-stone of the New 8th Regiment Armory.

At Ninety-fourth-st. and Park-ave, where the new armory is being built, several platforms had beep erected, and an hour before a uniform was in sight they were well filled with speciators. At 10 o'clock they were well filled with spectators. At 10 o'clock the 8th Regiment with its band left the present armory, at Thirty-sixth-st. and Broadway, and marched to the site of the new one. At Forty-fifth-st, they were reinforced by the regiment's Veteran Battalion, 300 strong, commanded by Major Leander Buck. Colonel Scott and his staff dismounted and took seats on the platform, where they were joined by Governor Hill and his staff at about noon. Mayor Hewlit arrived at about the same time as the Governor and sat down beside him. Erigadier-Generals Louis Fitz-gerald and James McLeer, and many staff officers of gerald and James McLeer, and many staff officers of the 1st and 2d Brigades, N. G. S. N. Y., supple-mented the number of guests on the stand. The officers of the Grand Lodge F. and A. M. of the State of New-York, led by Grand Master Frank R. Lawrence, conducted the Masonic ritual of the corner-stone laying, Mr. Lawrence being presented by Colonel George D. Scott, of the Regiment, with a silver trowel for the purpose. The exercises them-selves were short and simple and consisted of the usual ceremonies. Among the articles placed in the stone were transcripts of the regimental records and roster, copies of daily and weekly newspapers, and specimens of the current coinage of the day. stone itself is a magnificent block of Nova Scotia red granite, and on its two polished faces are the inscriptions: "1786, 8th Regiment, Washington Greys, N. G. S. N. Y. 1888,"; and "Paratus et Fidelis," the latter being the regimental motto.

SPEECHES OF THE MAYOR AND GOVERNOR. As soon as the ceremony was over Colonel Scott led Governor Hill forward and introduced him to the people. The Governor made a short speech, in the course of which he said: "The gallant 8th has long been in need of a suitable armory, and I am pleased that they are to have one. It is the munificence of the people of this great city which provides this building, and it may not be generally known that the city of New-York not only builds armories for its own soldiers, but pays fully one-half of the ex-pense for military armories throughout the State. yet, commendable as such generosity is, I may say that the safety and good order of the community de-pends not so much upon our soldiers as upon the in-telligence, good judgment and patriotism of our people. I consider it our moral duty to build ten school-houses for every@armory we build. It is on the education of the masses that we must rely for the safety and security of our free institutions."

A RECEPTION AT DELMONICO'S.

At the close of the parade and review the staff of the 1st Brigade gave a reception to Governor Hill at Delmonico's. Each one of the officers present received a pleasant word from the Governor. When Captain Wendell was introduced, Governor Hill inquired where he got the horse he had ridden so conspicuously.

"Oh, that's a circus horse," replied the captain.

"If you are re-elected, I shall let you ride him some day." This provoked much hilarity.

After luncheon had been disposed of, General Fitzgerald proposed the Governor's health. In reply Governor Hill congratulated the officers of the National Guard upon the fine showing made, and hoped that he might have occasion to command them again, for, he said, it was a great pleasure to him. The National Guard officers present were: Adjutant-General Porter, Generals Wylle, Stokes, Bryant, Robbins, Varian, Shaefer, Freeman, Bartlett, Brandreth; Colonels Judson, Gaynor and O'Donohue, of the Governor's staff; Colonel Leonard, Majors Ollo, Perialns, McKim, Dana, Outant, Goodwin, Stanton, Crocker, and Captain Roosevelt, of the 1st Brigade; General McLeer, Colonel Frothingham, Majors Lyman, Fowler and Sanger, Captains Leigh, Beard and Annan, of the 2d Erigade, Brooklyn. Colonel Clark repre-sented the 7th Regiment, Colonel Cavanagh the 69th, Colonel Scott the 8th, Colonel Seward the 9th, Colonel Stewart the 11th, Colonel Camp the 22d, Lieutenant-Colonel Dowd the 12th, Lieutenant-Colonel Hopper the 71st. Representatives of Brooklyn reg-iments were: Colonel Partridge, of the 23d; Colonel Austin, of the 13th; Colonel Finkelmeyer, of the 32d; Colonel Gaylor, of the 47th; Lieutenant-Colonel Trowbridge, of the 14th. The 1st; 2d and 3d Bat-teries were represented by Captains Wendel, Earl and Rasquinn.

From The Chicago Times.

Long John Wentwe th was very proud of referring to his ancestry and carried it so far that it become a weakness with him. On the occasion of the death of his first child Mr. Wentworth had the event brought to the notice of Mrs. Sigourney, the novelist and poetess, and coupled with the notice was a request that the poetess give the occasion such notice as her fancy might dictate. She wrote a poem on the death of the little one, and it is in any of the tooks now used in public schools, but it will be remembered by some when the first line is recalled.

DEATH OF WRIGHT SANFORD.

Wright Sanford died in the Gilsey House at 9 a. m. yesterday, after an illness of many months. While this result of the disease (rapid consumption) which prostrated him was sorrowfully anticipated weeks ago, the news of it was received with no less keen sorrow by his friends in the city than if there had been hope of his recovery. Regret was as general as it was sincere in the circles from which he will be most missed, and his death will be heard of with grief by all who have had even a short acquaintance with him, whether in New-York or else-

Four weeks ago he returned to the Gilsey House from a short walk very much fatigued, and he never afterward left his room. On Thursday night, when Dr. Curiis left the sick chamber, the patient was resting comfortably, but at midnight there was a change, and Mr. Sanford became unconscious. He remained in this condition until 9 o'clock Friday morning, when he died as peacefully as though falling into natural slumber. E. Harrison Sanford, the brother, received visits of condolence yesterday from many personal friends of the deceased man. The funeral will take place at 2 p. m. to-morrow, at the Church of the Transfiguration, in East Twenty-ninth-st., and Dr. Houghton will officiate. The burial will be in Greenwood Cemetery.

Wright Sanford was born in Brooklyn on the Fourth of July, 1842. His father was Rollin Sanford, a resident of Brooklyn and of New-York during many years. His mother was the only daughter of Amasa Wright of Brooklyn. He received his school education there, and pursued a course of study at Yale College, object. He was not brought up to any profession or business, nor did he ever attempt to practise any, as his private income rendered him independent. Yet his was by no means an inactive life, and the tasks in club and social affairs that he successfully undertool made him in effect a public man, whose personality and whose name were widely known. He belonged to a larger number of clubs, probably, than any other American club-man, much esteraed and highly popular among his fellows. He had been for many the Board of Governors of the Manhattan Club. He was prominent in the affairs of the New-York Club, and had been conspicuous and influential for a long time in the management of the theatrical organization known as the Lambs Club. He was a member of the Executive Committee of the Concy Island Jockey Club, and a member of the American Jockey Club, the Country Club and other associations and hunt clubs. He made it a point to attend important regatias, and his name was on the rolls of Athletic Club and the Racquet Club.

In every matter which pertained to the amusement and entertainment not only of the wealthy classes but also of the messes, Mr. Sanford was at the front. His fortune was sufficient for his tastes, and he suffered no anxiety from business cares or responsibilities. The investments from which he derived his income were in such forms that he was never seriously concerned about speculations or the rise and fall of securities. Wright Sanford was better known in a larger number of places and among a wider range of Yonkers, and William Ashmore, of China, and the men than almost any other New-Yorker who did not hold a public office of great importance, or who did not appeal to the people as an orator or as a great leader of thought. His face and figure were familiar in Wall Street, in Delmonico's, in the Brunswick, the St. James, the Hoffman, the Hamilton. The annual sermon will be preached by the Rev. I. A. But, as Mayor of New York, I want meglected for armories by one numicipality, we do build ten school-houses for every armores, and one of the people of the city, I can assure the members of the National Guard that there will never be any grumbling by the taxpayers about money raised to build armories. The Mayor's speech was applauded to the echo.

He could arrange a dinner with rare art. He could entertain his friends with sparkling conversation on a remarkably wide range of topics. He was a favo-ite and welcome presence at the great summer resorts during the hot season, at all places where the gay, the lively and the diverting are the objects of pursuit. His fancies extended even to lines of sport which are severely prescribed by public opinion and are indeed under the ban of the law. A passionate adform had been sufficiently rounded almost to entitle him to the description of portly. His hair and mustache were orginally very dark, like his eyes, but the passage of the years had left traces of gray. Yet, except from these slight indications, his age, which was not generally known, could not easily be guessed. He was extremely sensitive on the subject. He liked to have himself considered much younger than he really was, and all his tastes, sympathies and asso-ciations were youthful, rather than those of a man nearing fifty.

During the stormy periods which followed he remained in exile, a price being repeatedly offered for his head. Until 1876 he resided most of the time in France, but part of the time he passed at Jamaica and St. Thomas, where he could watch the political changes in Hayti. After the election of Canal in 1876 he returned to the island. The political opponents of Salomon continued to persecute him, but Canal gave him his protection and friendship. The revolutionary efforts of Louis Tanis in 1878 gave Saloman's political opponents opportunities to threaten his life and he field to Jamaica. He returned in the following year and in the fall he was circuit President. ing and he fied to Jamaica. He returned in the following year and in the fall he was elected President. He took the office on October 23, 1879, and at once endeavored to bring peace to the Island. Though often menaced by opposing political factions, he kept the island in comparative peace until last summer. His enemies then succeeded in driving him out of the country, and soon after reaching the Printed States he allow the Printed States he allowed the reaching the United States he sailed for France with his young white wife. The announcement yesterday of the mysterious disappearance of Mrs. Frederica Wilroth, of No. 126 Thornevery prizefight of any importance that has taken in this city on Wednesday, has led to her discovery in place within reach of New-York in the last quarter the German Hospital in East Seventy-seventh-st. The of a century Wright Sanford was the distinctive stranger who said he knew Mrs. Wilroth and took her in a cab from the paint shop in Centre-st. accompan her to the hospital and left her there without giving his own name. He also neglected to inform her husband. Mr. Wilroth went to the hospital yesterday and found her auffering from paralysis. She may not recover.

It is interesting to housekeepers to note the result of the tests of baking powders made from time to time by the official chemists. The tests made by Professor Edward G. Love, when examining these articles for the United States Government, gave the following figures indicating the comparative strength of several sold

These figures show relative strength, and indicate the brand most economical for use. The official analy-ses show in addition that the Reyal is of superior purity.

AN IDEAL APPOINTMENT, APPARENTLY. From The Minneapolis Tribune.

From The Minneapolis Tribune.

Dakota rejoices as one man. Governor Church has piaced Colonel Gale, of Canton, in temporary command of the Dakota National Guard. Colonel Gale is to Dakota what Berry Wall is to New-York, what Kyrie Iteliew is to the stage. He is as necessary to Dakota as Freddie is to Mrs. Langtry or reform to the Democratic party. The colonel, now general, is a happy admixture of the Bostonian-English and the free border abandoment of the untained West. The general is a Bostonian in accent, collar and cane, wears his hair like an English duke, rides like a circus girl and believes in himself as he does his satechism.

But fond as Mr. Sanford was of athletic sports, of sparring and of every form of physical contest, he was not a boxer himself, nor did he ever engage in violent exercise. He had loved his ease too well for many many months. Last winter he first began to feel the sapping of his vital powers, and as the spring went on he beganne steadily weaker. At the June meeting of the concept faland Jolier, Club, in which he took the warmest interest, he was able to be present only twice, on two mild and sunn, days, and all his friends who then greeted him and took him by the hand felt as they looked in his face that the shadow of death was already upon it. When the hot weather of midsunomer came he went to Saratoga but he was confined to his room in the hotel during most of the time he spent there, and was little seen at his former favorite hanns, at Moon's on the lake, at the club house, or at the race course. He also spent a part of the sunner at the Adirondæks. When the Saratoga season closed he returned to the city so weak that he could hardly walk. He was taken to the room at the Gilsey House which he had occupied for about ten years, and sank gradually until the end came. For the last few days which he had occupied for about the years, and sank gradually until the end came. For the last few days he was conscious only at intervals. GENERAL LOUIS E. F. SALOMON.

Paris, Oct. 19.—General Louis Etienne Felicite Salomon, the deposed President of Hayti, died to-day. He had come to Paris after his expulsion from Hayti to undergo the operation of cystotomy.

General Salomon was born in Hayti seventy-two years ago, and was a full-blooded negro. He belonged to a family of land-owners and received a good education from French teachers. Early in life he entered the Government service under the Administrator of Finance in his mattive place. He took part in the revolution of 1842, after which he occupied several positions of trust, such as financial agent, magistrate and solder, under the Presidences of Guerrier, Pierrot, Riche and Seuionque. When the empire which Soulouque established in 1849 was overthrown in 1858 General Salomon took refuge in France. During the stormy periods which followed he remained in exile, a price being repeatedly offered for his head. Until 1876 he resided most of the time in France, but part of the time he passed at Lamies, and S. Thomas a close of the volunt of the Vorcester Spy.

Harvey Hoimes, one of the most remarkable men in was chusets, died at his home in Great to make the Was a biras and in Sarfiglion, Saturday morning. He was the oldest deputy sheriff in the County. He was the oldest deputy sheriff in the County, having served since 1850. Refore the days of stoves and railroada he was a brass manutarized most of the powder used in blasting the Harlem tunnel. He was a lifelong resident of the first Republican convention in 1855. He first voted for John Quincy Adams, 1837. He ran a stage route between Alonany and Hartford. He became a Unitarian in 1825. He had been a Free Mason since 1822.
